

CITY FATHERS' BUSY SESSION

MANY PETITIONS AND PROTESTS WERE ENTERTAINED.

FAVOR OPENING UP ALLEY

From Milwaukee to Court Street—Petition for Saloon License Denied—More Cross-Walks Ordered.

All of the aldermen were in their seats when the regular meeting of the city council was called last evening. The council committee had its usual report on bills and salary list and both were approved. The city clerk was authorized to draw an order for $11.23 for Memorial day expenses. Five bids for furnishing the city with coal for operating the crusher plant were opened. W. H. H. Macdonald was awarded the contract for Wilmetton lump at $2.20 per ton and the Badger Coal Co. for Rocking Valley coal at $1.90 a ton. Chairman Schwartz of the fire and water committee reported favorably on the petition of the Janesville Electric Co. to be allowed to erect a frame structure with galvanized iron roof over its wheels. The highways committee asked for further time to consider the protest of the seven residents of Prospect avenue against the narrowing of that thoroughfare in the laying of curbing.

Jackson Street Protest. The sewerage committee, Alderman Merritt chairman, also asked for further time to consider the protest of the South Jackson street property holders, including the trustees of the Baptist and Congregational churches, against the laying of a service sewer on that highway. The protestants maintained that the sewerage system already existing on that street could be incorporated into the city system and that they did not want their fine road bed torn up, neither were they willing to bear the expense of the new sewers. The license committee recommended that the petition with fifty signatures requesting that Thomas Madden be granted a license to conduct a saloon at 414 Pleasant street, west of the tracks, be laid on the table. The suggestion was incorporated into a motion and carried without dissent.

Yield to Water Co. The Water Co.'s offer to furnish water in the courthouse park from May to October for $150 was accepted. The company was also granted permission to shut off the display fountains at ten o'clock at night with the understanding that they be turned on again every morning at eight. The judiciary committee to which was referred a petition that the alley in the rear of the Hayes block from Milwaukee to Court streets be kept open, offered a resolution to the effect that it be declared the intention of the council to make the said alley an open thoroughfare and to have a survey made by the city engineer and the expense to the city involved, the real estate benefited, and the proportion of cost to be borne by the owners ascertained.

Sidewalk and Grades. The owner of lot 32 on Walker street which is near the standpoint was given permission to build a four foot walk.

The city clerk was authorized to purchase two carloads of paving brick. On recommendation of the highways committee the sidewalk grade on the north side of West Hill street from Terrace to Pearl, grade submitted by the city engineer was accepted. Brick cross-walks were ordered at the corner of Bluff and Wall streets, on South High street on the south side of Milwaukee, Jefferson street on the south side of Galena, Union on the south side of Franklin street, Park avenue on the north side of Galena at the intersection of Milton and Benton avenues, on the south side of Milwaukee at the intersection of Main were ordered. The Janesville Electric Co. was instructed to place a street lamp at the corner of Milwaukee and Holmes streets. The city engineer was instructed to file sidewalk grades on the south side of Wall street from Jackson to High, and the north side of Center street from Franklin to Jackson. Permission to build a four foot walk on the south side of North street between Logan and Lincoln streets was granted. Steps to lease a portion of the Northwestern right-of-way for a sewer between Riverside and the river were approved. A tile culvert on Galena street on the west side of Linn, an eighteen inch tile on Marion street across Jefferson, the across Western avenue on the east side of Jefferson, were ordered. The south side of Magnolia avenue between Oak Hill and Washington street was ordered cleaned.

Garfield School Bonds. The public buildings committee recommended that the transoms of the 96 windows in the city hall be repaired and that it be so ordered. It likewise was recommended the purchase of a chair and couch for the office of the chief of police, not to exceed $30 in cost. Alderman Matheson introduced an ordinance providing for the purchase of a site and construction of the new Garfield school building and the issuance of bonds to cover the cost thereof. Thirty $500 Garfield school coupon bonds with interest payable semi-annually at 4 percent will be issued and a direct annual tax levied to meet the same. The appropriation to pay off the principal and interest in 1904 will be $1,630. In 1905 $1,540, and so on in a decreasing scale. In behalf of the Fourth of July committee the mayor invited the aldermen and city officials to ride in the parade on the Fourth of July. The council adjourned at a quarter to eleven o'clock before Alderman Grove could get his question as to whose business it was to trim the trees, answered. An adjourned meeting will be held to take up the saloon licenses Tuesday night.

MORE BY PLAY IN BARBER LAW

Beloit Barber Hunts for an Officer, with a Warrant to Arrest Him.

It is very seldom that any man seeks an officer whom he knows to have a warrant for his arrest, but this is what that Hawkins of Beloit, the barber and extra policeman, did yesterday afternoon. M. H. Whitaker, the state barber shop inspector, Monday swore out a warrant for the arrest of Hawkins, on a charge of employing an unlicensed man in his shop on West Grand avenue in Beloit and, Chief Scheibel gave the papers to Constable George Merrill for service. Then started a round of search by both the hunter and hunted. Hawkins went over to police court to have the warrant served on him as soon as he heard it was issued, as he desired to have the case tried yesterday. At the same time Merrill started for Hawkins' shop and they missed each other. Then Merrill began to look about for Hawkins and could not find him for the reason that Hawkins was waiting in the court room, a most unusual place to look for a prospective prisoner.

Merrill found him, however, and served the papers, but just about this time Lee Gullbert, the man in question employed by Hawkins, and Mr. Whitaker got together and it was decided to drop the case. Gullbert came to Beloit about two months ago and came to Janesville to see Whitaker about getting a barber's license, but was told that he would have to live one year in the state before a license could be given him. He was told, however, that he might work in a shop under the direction of somebody else and this is what Gullbert claims he was doing. Mr. Hawkins worked mornings and evenings in the shop, but was employed during the day as speech policeman, but kept an eye on the work at the shop at all times. It is understood that the case was dropped upon the condition that Hawkins settle all costs.

CITY BUYS FIVE VOTING MACHINES

At an Aggregate Cost of $3,000—Finance Committee Wished to Start in With But Two.

Janesville's peculiar charter which takes precedence over the general law of the state made it impossible for the council to purchase five voting machines and pay for them in installments covering a period of seven years. Had this move been possible it was estimated that the machines could be paid for out of the saving in election expenses each year. The charter does not permit the city to contract for this kind of future indebtedness, so the committee on finance to which was referred the question recommended that the city buy outright two machines—one for the fourth ward whose precincts were to be consolidated and one for the second ward—at a cost of $500 each. In view of the large expenditures which would have to be incurred during the present year it was deemed hardly advisable by the committee to expend $2,000 for five of them. Aldermen from other wards did not entertain this suggestion favorably and it was at first decided to lay the matter over to an adjourned meeting. Later in the evening the question was reconsidered and Alderman Murray amended Alderman Matheson's order in such a manner as to make it provide for the purchase of five. The amendment carried. Aldermen Matheson, Merritt, and Schmidley voting in the negative. The U. S. Standard Voting Machine Co. of Rochester, N. Y., will install the instruments here before the next election and will provide without cost an extra machine for possible emergencies in the fourth ward. A man will be sent to the city to instruct the officials in the manner of operation. The machines will cost the city $2,000 and the money must be paid before the first of December. Through this new method of voting it will be possible to know election totals a half hour after the polls are closed.

WILD ANIMALS RECEIVED DAILY

Trainers Are Now Caging the Wild Beasts for Their Appearance July 4th in Street Parade.

Nonesuch Bros. famous world-renowned shows that makes its first appearance in this city on July Fourth, have employed several well-known animal trainers to care for the large stock of wild and ferocious animals that are being received at the company's headquarters daily. One of the latest curiosities to arrive yesterday was "Medusa," the only full-blooded goat now in existence in the world. This ferocious beast was captured in the wilds of Johnston Center, many years ago. This is not the first appearance of this wild animal within the tented arena, as he has been exhibited in nearly every city in the United States and foreign lands. This is only one of the many curiosities that will be with this famous show this year.

BOARD OF REVIEW, CITY OF JANSVILLE

Public notice is hereby given that the Board of Review of said City of Janesville will meet at their office in the City Hall on the 25th day of July 1904, at one o'clock a. m., for the purpose of reviewing and examining the assessment roll of real and personal property in said city and county, and of correcting errors in said roll, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 199, Laws of 1903. A. E. BADGER, City Clerk. Dated Janesville, Wis., June 15, 1904.

FIRST OF ITS KIND IN JANSVILLE

Hollow Cement Block Building Now in the Course of Construction at Electric Light Plant.

One of the first buildings in the lower city to be built of the Palmer Hollow Concrete block is that of the Janesville Electric Light company's new power house which is in the course of erection near the old Ford mill. This Hollow Concrete block is in no way new in the building line, having been used with great success in the east and especially in New York city, where some of the most beautiful office structures are built of the Hollow Concrete block. The new building now being erected by the Janesville Electric Light company when completed will be an ornament to the city. The structure will be only one story high, with numerous windows and doors throughout the building. The carpenters are now at work on the framework which is being put over the water wheels. The roof of the building will be of iron and the mason work on the main structure will be completed inside of two weeks and then the roofing work will be commenced. The company has installed one three-hundred horse power boiler, it has been put in place and the covering is now being put around the boiler. This is one of the largest boilers in the state and will be used only for cases of emergency. The work of laying the concrete blocks is much more rapid than ordinary brick, thus saving a great deal of labor.

COUNCIL PASSED WIRE ORDINANCE

Requiring Underground Conduits Within Five Years—Vote Was 4-1, and Mayor Decided It.

Several surprises punctuated the meeting of the city council last evening and not the least of these was the sudden resurrection and passage of the wire ordinance which was supposed to be enjoying the sleep that knows no awakening in the hands of the judiciary committee. The measure was introduced originally by Alderman Matheson and provides that before August 1, 1905, all wires, cables, and poles on certain portions of Main, Milwaukee, and River streets, extending under wires and spurs and loops for suspended lamps, shall be removed and placed in underground conduits. Later another measure providing that wires should all be raised to the height of 40 feet, designed to supplant the original ordinance, was introduced and after being advanced to its first and second readings was referred to the committee.

Threshed Out Again. The wire question had become a difficult and perplexing one after the strenuous objections of the telephone and electric companies had been heard and the council was apparently in no hurry to take final action on it. Some of the members gasped, therefore, when towards the close of the meeting Alderman Jackman called up the original measure and moved that it be given its third reading and placed on passage. Alderman Matheson said that when the ordinance had been introduced it had not occurred to him that the expense involved would amount to more than a few thousand dollars nor had it appeared a burden to the concerns involved inasmuch as there would be five years time in which to complete the work. Subsequently he had been informed by the electric company that the work would have to be done at once and that it would involve an outlay of $23,000. Even if this estimate were divided by three the city would still be imposing a heavy burden.

Mayor Decides Vote. The chief engineer had subsequently said that if the wires could be raised to 40 feet the same purpose could be accomplished. This the companies were willing to do. The speaker did not think it was the policy of the council to deal unfairly with corporations or men whether they were wealthy or poor. The new interurban line might be a possible competitor of the present lighting company with conditions as they are now, but with the underground conduit requirement it would be eliminated from the field. Alderman Jackman did not think this argument was in harmony with another to the effect that it would be necessary for the Electric Co. to raise its rates and eventually get the money necessary for building the conduits out of the city. Alderman Connell moved that the whole matter be laid over until another meeting but this motion was lost. The vote on the passage of the ordinance was as follows: Aye—Connell, Grove, Jackman, Sheridan, and Schmidley; no—Connell, Matheson, Merritt, Murray, and Schwartz. Mayor Hutchinson cast the deciding vote in the affirmative.

FISHERMEN ARE NUMEROUS NOW

THE RIVER BANKS LINED WITH IZAAK WALTONS.

WOULD WILE LEVIATHANS

Many Kinds of Fish in River—Many Kinds of Bait Used—Many Fishing Holes.

Izaak Walton did not write in vain if every place has the same per cent. of his followers and disciples as Janesville, for numerous are the anglers and many are the fishing holes which local fishermen haunt. Rock River may not be navigable, nor the cleanest of rivers, but if one can judge from the number of people who fish in it the Rock can hold its own with many of the best when it comes to fish. The kinds of fish. The waters swarm with carp and croppers and the swift places are the haunts of walleyed pike, pickerel and black bass, while in places where the bottom is muddy and the water deep the catfish and bullheads swim. In back currents and eddies and sometimes in the open water may be found schools of perch and bluegills, both kinds of which though not classed with the game fish make good eating at all times of the year. Catfish bass are also found in abundance at times. But less numerous are the rock and yellow bass, numbers of which were put in the river a few years ago.

The Fishing Places. Janesville fishermen often go to Lake Koshkonong and occasionally the report of the catch of a large muskellunge comes from there. Many go to the Edgerton railroad bridge, Indian Ford, the Narrows, the Four-Mile bridge, Afton and the mouth of Black Creek. But the most popular places within walking distance are the upper dam, the swift water back of Blodgett's mill, Court street bridge, Monterey dam and the Big Rock. Back of Blodgett's mill Henry C. Hudson recently pulled in a 7 1/2 pound walleyed pike and Harry Lovejoy caught a 11 1/2 pound pickerel in the vicinity of the Big Rock. Bait Used.

Baits, live, imitative and dead are used. Minnows make a tempting morsel for nearly every fish and the bluish, which can seldom be hooked, are good for nothing, will steal "shiners" faster than they can be put on the hook. The fly has been popular with fishermen all year, the large bass flies being used for all game fish and the small, bright-colored trout flies for croppies. Frogs are a scarce article now and used mostly for black bass fishing. Spoon hooks are occasionally used but they are considered as a better bait in the spring. Shiners can only be procured from the shallow places, the sand bars and the creeks. Cheese, preferable that of Herculian odor, proves a temptation to the "cats." Angle worms are used to catch bullheads, small "cats," bluegills and at times if one is persistent enough a pike will bite.

The Omnipresent Carp. The carp, despised by many and beloved by few, are undoubtedly the most numerous. At nearly any part of the river they can be seen coming to the surface. A half-cooled potato is the best bait for this species but not being protected by any law they are speared and snelled by many. One local fisherman says that if left in spring water a week and then smoked with a good hot fire they make excellent eating and surpass in taste and quality the best smoked whitefish.

WHAT WE HAVE GAINED.

To the statement that with the conclusion of the presidential election, and with the harvesting of ample crops, there should follow a period of steady improvement in business, the reply is sometimes made: "Oh! That may be, but we shall not have again in years another time when money can be made so easily as it was before 1903."

That then is the complaint, the passing of the period when money could be made easily without working for it. To the gambler that is, indeed, an irreparable loss, but to the man who thinks right, it is one of the great gains which we owe to the present reaction. The "boom" has indeed gone, perhaps not to return again for several years. The occupation of the gambler's quick promoter and gambler is gone. The man who wants an opportunity of making big money, easily, is disappointed and disgruntled, and it is no solace to him to be told that with good crops and an ending of political uncertainties there should be a marked improvement in all branches of business next year.

But to the man who is willing to work for a living, such an assurance means everything. As long as conditions are favorable for working, that is all he wants to know. It will, indeed, be a good thing for this country to have a few years of steady, but healthy progress, without the excitement and perils of a great inflation.

Our attention has been centered so long on the losses which the reaction has caused, that somehow we have missed the gains which it has made. And much has been gained; so much that if it were possible to record them on the credit side of the ledger, it would probably be found that in the long run they count for more than the reduced volume of business, the retarded enterprise and the failures. It is no small gain that there has been a return to more wholesome methods, that the frenzy of speculation has been checked, that unscrupulous promotion has been stopped, that bounds have been set to the growth of monopoly, that conditions which might easily have led to disintegration have been changed, and the markets have become saner and truer. There is nothing in all that which may disturb the man who is willing to work for success. In fact it is not too much to say that two or three years more of such times as we experienced in 1901 might have wrecked the country. One of our most eminent financiers expressed an opinion to this effect some months ago, and as time goes on the correctness of his view appears more and more. Much as the beginning of the suit against the Northern Securities Company was criticised at the time the proceeding was brought, it is the belief now of some of our foremost men that it served more to call the country to its senses, and thus prevent a terrible collapse than anything else that could have happened.

To the mere speculator, the man who gambles, the schemes and dishonest promoter, such considerations as these, of course, have no weight. They thrive best in a period of unwholesome inflation, when the temperature of business is at such a height that it indicates the frenzy of fever. Nor are these considerations appreciated by the unthinking camp followers of the speculative army, men who long for a return of the happy time when they could buy at any price today and be sure of a higher price tomorrow. But solid business men who know how dangerously near the precipice of panic and disaster we ran, rejoice in the escape the country has made, and in the fact that we are having a period of rest and recuperation, with a fair prospect of steady and healthy improvement as soon as the uncertainties of this season are past.

TARIFF "READJUSTMENT."

The word "readjustment" has been put into the tariff plank of the republican platform. This word is not as familiar in its use in connection with the tariff question as the other word "revision," but it means practically the same. To "readjust" is to rearrange; to "revise" is to examine and review for the detection of errors. The democrats will probably call for a revision of the tariff. The republicans favor readjustment "when conditions have so changed that public interest demands their alteration." The difference between these two statements of policy lies in the fact that republican readjustment would be based on the maintenance of the principle of protection, while democratic revision would look toward ultimate free trade.

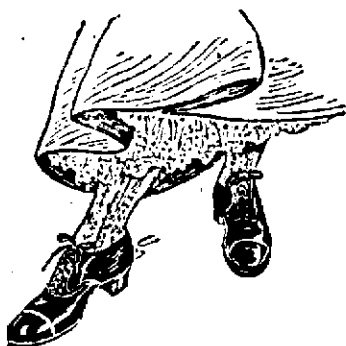

The fact that the republican platform goes so far as to admit the possibility of a change in conditions, when public interest would demand readjustment of the tariff, is certainly noteworthy. It may not mean much for the present, but it is a step in the right direction. The platform also contains a declaration in favor of reciprocity, whenever this can be arranged without overturning the principle of protection to home industries. Reciprocity has, however, been proclaimed in more than one republican platform. In 1896, for instance, the platform declared that protection and reciprocity were twin measures of republican policy, and in 1900 the platform said, after declaring in favor of the protection of the home market, "we fear the associated policy of reciprocity." But in saying, as the platform does this year, that "the rate of duties should be adjusted whenever conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration," the republican party seems to have taken a more radical step in regard to the tariff than at any other time in its history. In 1884 the platform pledged the republican party to correct the inequalities of the tariff and reduce the surplus, "by such methods as will relieve the taxpayer without injuring the laborer or the productive interests." But even that is not quite so strong as the word "adjusted" appears to make the plank of this year.

Of course, the mere fact that the republican party has admitted in its platform that conditions may change so as to require adjustment of the tariff does not mean that it intends, if it continues in control of the government, to set about an immediate readjustment. On the contrary, it may take a long time to bring it to that point. Moreover, the party still stands firmly upon the principle of protection and any readjustment which it would permit would be based upon that principle. The significance of this plank, it seems to us, lies in the fact that it recognizes the existence of a growing feeling in this country in favor of a revision of the tariff. President McKinley who was the great apostle of protection, in his last public address delivered at Buffalo the day before his assassination, spoke some words which indicated that even he recognized an imperative need of an extension of our foreign market and was ready for some change that would relieve the tariff. Since then there have been two factions in the republican party, one, headed by the late Senator Hanna, was strongly in favor of a "stand-pat" policy, that is to say, a steady adherence to the present protective tariff. The other section, which has its center in the state of Iowa, and has been described as the Iowa idea, favored a policy of revision of the tariff which, while not abandoning the principle of protection, would serve to promote the extension of our foreign commerce. It would appear that the plank which has been adopted is, in a measure, a compromise between these two factions. It is evident that the tariff question is to be a prominent issue in the campaign.

American Beauty Excels Grecian.
American women are more beautiful than those of ancient Greece or Rome. Our growing standard of beauty appeals just as much to cultured foreigners as it does to Americans themselves. The American girl is envied by her European sisters because while abroad she attracts European men.

Hint to Nurses.
A floor should never be swept in a room where there is a contagious patient. It should be washed with a cloth dipped in borax water, so that no dust annoys the patient and no assortment of germs are flung up in the air, to drift out of the window into the hall en route to fresh victims.

WEEK'S PROGRESS IN SUGAR BEETS

WHAT IS BEING DONE THROUGH-OUT ROCK COUNTY.

SOME HINTS TO GROWERS

La Fayette Myers Writes Regarding the Best Methods To Be Pursued at Present.

(By La Fayette Myers.)
The past week has been very favorable; the local showers were just what was needed for the later planted beets and it is wonderful how they are now growing.

In general the thinning will be completed this week. This being the hardest and most particular work connected with the raising of beets
we are very thankful that the crop has reached this stage.

We have heard very little complaint
this year about the expense of thinning the crops, or the failure to procure the necessary labor at the right time. In most all cases the new growers have had very little trouble in securing help and have got along a great deal cheaper than they expected.

There are, of course, a few growers who are neglecting their beet crop just the same as they neglect the other crops on their farm. However, there are not very many and weedy and grassy fields will be hard to find in a week or so.

To those growers whose beets have reached the growth where the leaves are covering the rows. We would advise one more cultivation. Cultivate deeper than previously, with only the duck feet attachment.

We think that with proper use of the cultivator and hoe for the next two or three weeks that the entire crop will practically be laid by.

If your beet field is not all thinned and perfectly free from weeds and grass now, you should not be satisfied until you have brought it to this condition. On account of the dry weather we are having the beets will need all the moisture and nourishment in the soil themselves, without dividing it up with the weeds and grass.

Reports from the outlying towns are very favorable since the last rain and we hope will continue.

MAD DOG WAS SHOT BY OFFICER BROWN

In a Field Adjoining Gold Street Yesterday Afternoon—Little Klasko Boy Bitten Today.

What was believed to be a mad dog was shot by Officer Brown in a field adjoining Gold street yesterday afternoon. The animal was a terrier belonging to the Daily family which lives on that thoroughfare and was frothing at the mouth and running wild through the meadow. This morning a little fellow by the name of Klasko residing on Gold street was badly bitten in the side by a dog belonging to the Templetons. Officer Brown again visited the locality and dispatched this canine. There was indication that the dog had the rabies.

SOCIAL DEMOCRAT ORATOR TONIGHT

Frederick G. Strickland Will Have Something to Say About Colorado in Open Air Talk Tonight.

Frederick G. Strickland who appears here this evening under the auspices of the social democratic party to give an open air address on the Corn Exchange square on the subject of "When Organized Labor Meets Organized Capital," said the Gazette office a pleasant call this morning. Mr.
Strickland was in Colorado during three months last year and says that he will have something to say about the strike situation there in his remarks tonight, with special reference to the deportation of good loyal men and the filling of their places with

FREDERICK G. STRICKLAND

scalawags "Sherman Bell says that everyone will be sent out who lives solely by talking with his mouth," said Mr. Strickland, "and that hits me." The speaker is a native of Indiana, a graduate of the college at Urbana, Ohio, founder of "Hiram House," Cleveland, and was formerly pastor of the People's Christian church in Chicago. Of late years he has devoted his entire time to his present work. He is one of the organizers of the social democratic party in Wisconsin and gave a very interesting address in Janesville last winter. The Milwaukee papers of Sunday stated that Mr. Strickland was stopped by the mayor of Neenah while delivering an address to the striking paper-makers. Mr.
Strickland says that this was untrue
—that he was at Appleton at the time stated and was at no time interfered with.

THREE HUNDRED GO TO A PICNIC

Steamer Columbia Makes Several Trips to Crystal Springs for the St. Paul Lutheran Picnic

About three hundred scholars of the St. Paul German Lutheran school and members of the St. Paul church filled the steamer Columbia several times today, bound for Crystal Springs, where the annual school picnic was held today. About one hundred scholars marched from the school room through the streets to the dock this morning at nine o'clock headed by the G. A. R. drum corps.
Refreshments of all kinds were sold on the grounds and all the regular picnic day amusements were enjoyed.
Many will return early and many later in the evening. Mr. Herman Jaeger and Mr. Martin Miltzer, the teachers of the school, had charge of the outing.

THIEVES ENTERED A LUMBER OFFICE

Schaller & McKey Headquarters Visited by Marauders Some Time
Sunday—Took a Robe.

Thieves entered the lumber office of Schaller & McKey sometime Sunday
but so far as can be discovered carried nothing away with them save a robe of considerable value. Entrance was effected by shattering the glass in one of the windows. The work is believed to be that of home talent.

With the mosquitoes the size of baby crows and the deer almost as numerous, Mrs. Holsapple and Merrill have been fishing in the trout streams about twenty miles inland from Pelican, Wis. They report an excellent time and fine fishing. The deer are thick in this part of the state and they predict fine hunting for this fall.
Each morning they start from camp
armed with a casting rod, a dip net, a fisherman's basket and a lunch and wearing a pair of hip boots and a piece of mosquito netting wound around about the face. One always wades down stream waiting for a strike and when that comes then is the fight and the fun. At noon one goes into the pines and cooks and eats dinner and then down stream again.
At six o'clock the day's sport is ended and one finds himself not over a mile and a half from camp having followed the stream he has gone in and out a hundred twists and turns.
Somedays fifty, other days only fifteen trout can be shown for the day's efforts.

THINK OF MOVING STABLES NORTH

The Galbraith Horse Headquarters
May Be Transferred to Brandon,
Canada, at No Distant Date.

At no distant date the Galbraiths may remove their headquarters for imported horses from Janesville to Brandon, Canada, where they already have large interests. The step is not contemplated for the immediate present but is looked upon as a possibility by no means remote. For many years they have made Janesville famous as a horse center. Besides their large stables in East Milwaukee they have many head of horses on farms in the town of Harmony.

CHAPTER XI. PRISON ALARM.

COVERED by their long cloaks, unnoticed by the few who were in the streets, Alma and Harvey Irons went toward the river. Several times Harvey tried to speak, but Alma would not permit it. Winding through the narrower streets, met twice by sentries and giving the password, which she knew, Alma led him safely to the wharf where the hayboats lay. Lanterns moved here and there, but most of the boatmen were asleep. Alma knew where the boat of Charika of Ashkar was moored and hurried to it. It could not well be mistaken, for it was the largest of the hayboats, and its cargo had not been touched.

"Charika!" she said as the two stepped upon the boat. "Charika of Ashkar!"

"Who calls Charika of Ashkar?" asked the sleepy boatman as he emerged from the dingy little box he called his house.

"It is I, Charika, who purchased your hay and bargained for you to deliver it at Astrabad with a passenger."

"Good. You were long coming. The hay has been wanted many times. But I knew you would come, so I did not sell."

"M. Irons," said Alma, turning to Harvey and putting out her hands, "I can do no more. Knowing that you were in danger of being killed or of being sent to Siberia, where your identity would be lost and all hope of rescue gone, I determined that I would set you free if possible. I have purchased this hay, and Charika will deliver it— you, rather— at Astrabad, where you will be safe from the persecutions of your enemies."

"But what of you, my darling girl, my bravest? You have sacrificed yourself for me."

"They dare not kill me," said Alma. "They would do anything. But I cannot go like this. Give me just a moment. Let me take you in my arms!"

Charika, with a fine sense of propriety, walked back to his little box.

"Oh, if I could repay you, dear," said Harvey, taking her in his arms, "if the devotion of a life could pay you for what you have done, how gladly would I make you happy! But what can I do? It will be impossible for me to see you now."

"Some day—some day I will come to you."

"Come with me now," raising kisses on her lips. "I will not go without you. I will go back and give myself up."

"Dear one, do not speak like that! It is ungrateful!"

"So it is, darling. You have cut off your hair, your beautiful hair, that I loved. How did you accomplish my rescue? Tell me what you did?"

Alma told Harvey the whole story.

"I even gave myself up to abandon for your sake, dear one," concluded Alma. "I permitted his lips to touch mine; I allowed his arm to encircle my waist. Oh, the thought of it burns, but it was for you!"

"Great heaven! What a woman! And now you want me to leave you to their vengeance! Russia does not forgive. You will be sent to Siberia. You must come with me or I shall remain and fight for you."

"And be killed! You must go at once. Kiss me, dear one! It may be the last."

"It shall not! Hark! The alarm gun of the prison!"

The dull boom of a cannon smote the air.

"Here, we must get out of this," said Charika, rushing from his box. "The soldiers will swarm along the river in no time."

"My uncle has thought we were gone too long," said Alma, trembling with the weakness of reaction. "He has searched for us in the palace and, not finding us, has gone to the prison. He has questioned the servants and learned that we were there. Perhaps he has even discovered that the prince is locked in a cell. My dear one, hide under the hay. Charika, where can he hide? He is your friend, and your enemies are after him!"

With a sweep of his hand Charika showed them the immense cargo of hay. It rested upon many long planks that met in the middle of the boat and extended some feet over each side. Under the planks was a vacant space.

"Under there," said Charika. "There you will be safe. Hurry! The dogs of Muscovites will soon be here."

"You shall not go back to imprisonment or death," said Harvey. "Come with me! We will go to America, where you will be safe and happy. Come, my darling, come."

Alma hesitated. Again sounded the alarm gun. Perhaps the thought of solitary imprisonment, perhaps the knout, perhaps Siberia, came to her.

"I will go," she said simply.

The two crawled under the hay, and Charika lay down on the boat as it slipped.

Everything happened as Alma had supposed. The hall had been deprived of its most brilliant lights. With Alma and Dellinkoff gone, it grew dull. A half hour passed, and Colonel Jurnelt got uneasy.

"Where are your beautiful niece and Dellinkoff?" asked the governor.

"The prince said they were going to find a secluded spot and talk things over. I asked Alma, and she consented to the announcement of their betrothal, but said the prince had not asked her to be his wife. I sent him to her, and they came to an agreement. But they wanted to be alone to talk. I do not know what keeps them."

"It is not so easy to leave off a conversation with a girl like Alma. It is almost time for the supper. I hope they will not forget."

The governor showed his anxiety as the time for him to take the highest of his guests to supper arrived.

"I am filled with misgivings, your excellency," said Jurnelt. "There is something wrong."

"Wrong! What can be wrong?"

"Something, I know not what. The girl bewitched us all tonight. I had never seen her so gay, so reckless. She acted as if she had drunk too much wine, and she seldom drinks any, and now, when she is not here, with her beauty and her wit to enslave me, I recall how she lured the prince. She never said so, but she refused to marry him. She was in love with an American."

"Where is the American?"

"He is in our prison. He is implicated in the abduction of Koura Dellinkoff."

"And you think—what do you think? Speak, man!"

"I cannot think. I am going to the prison to see what has happened."

He called for his carriage. It was gone. He took the nearest one—one in which a Chinese mandarin had come to the ball—and hurried to the prison. He dashed to the living apartments. Marie was asleep. He roared for her, and, trembling in every limb, she came to him.

"Has my niece returned from the ball?"

"She did return, colonel. I went to her, but she dismissed me and told me to go to bed."

Jurnelt ran to Alma's rooms. On the floor he saw her long brown tresses.

"What devilry is here tonight?" he gasped.

He dashed to the prison. The captain of the guard started when he saw the pallor of the colonel's face.

"Has any one visited the prison tonight?"

"Yes; the inspector general."

"What! Do you mean Prince Dellinkoff?"

"Yes, my colonel. He had with him also an orderly."

"Was my niece here?"

"I did not see the young lady."

"What did the inspector general do?"

"He and his orderly went into the dungeons where the prisoners for Siberia are kept. They soon came back, as the orderly was not well. The inspector general said they would go out in the air a short time and return. They did not return."

"Open that door to the dungeons!"

The captain took down the bunch of keys. He trembled and turned white.

"What is the matter?" commanded Jurnelt.

"The key is gone."

Jurnelt swayed. He no longer thought of promotion, but how to save himself from disgrace.

"The door must be broken in. Go for the locksmith."

The locksmith was roused from his sleep and soon had the door open. Jurnelt rushed in and began opening the cells. In one he found Dellinkoff, sleeping as if drunk. He dragged him out to the light.

"Drugged!" he exclaimed. "The girl has tricked us all! Where is the American?"

His cell was opened. It was empty.

"Fire the alarm gun! They are still in this! The guards will find them! Get out every man! Have the garrison turned loose! I must go and report to the governor."

In ten minutes the hall was over. Chinese mandarins and Persian princes were hustled off and chattered together in bewilderment. Every Russian at the ball was sent out to hunt the fugitive, with orders to bring him back dead or alive.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back for an Old One—How It Is Done in Janesville.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Follow the example of this Janesville citizen.

Mrs. N. J. Casey, of 103 Prairie ave., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved better than any other medicine I took for my kidneys. These organs troubled me off and on for many years. Backache was the chief symptom and often caused me to suffer severely. I tried a number of remedies but continued to grow worse instead of better. I was finally persuaded to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at the People's Drug Store. I only took them a few days when I felt better. Should there be any recurrence of my trouble I know what to use."

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality, causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. With one dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. People's Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy, Special Agents.
